in impressive, earnest words: gl, that His work is wages. His smile is beaven, and in all solemnity we say to-day in memory of what the year has brought to us, Glory be to the Father, Glory be to the Son. Glory be to the Holy Ghost. Our rejoicing is to God; our comfort, joy and peace, All that King to serve. And now as a little thought, a little motto to bind us together until we meet again, we will take the watchword 'Christ in Later Mrs. Bottome said: "We call ourselves King's Daughters as we are, but we must be world. The one thing the world needs most is the beautiful tenderness, patience, unselfishness and never tiring love of motherliness.

The Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Davis, gave a brief synopsis of the year's work of the order, embodying much interesting information, somewhat as follows: "Within the year 14.30 letters have been received at headquarters and 18.744 sent out, no one letter frequently requests that information be sent to two or three persons. THE EVENING BESSION.

Dr. C. B. Bridgeman welcomed the King's Daughters assembled in his church for tracting session, congratulated them upon their success, and said to them: "However we differ when we stand to repeat our creed, when we kneel in prayer we are one in heart and purpose."

we differ when we stand to repeat our creed, when we kneel in prayer we are one in heart and nurpose."

Mr. Bottome made the opening address after the customary preliminary religious service, and said: "It is now nearly five years since we the king's Daughters, began to hold these semi-annual reunions, and the vital question in these gatherings is whether the object for which we united in this sisterhood of service—the descening of spiritual life and the quickening of Christian activities—is being accomished. I believe it is, I know we have become spiritually stronger in the past six months than ever before. We are realizing more surely that the Kingdom is within us, and that whatever we do at the loom, behind the counter, in the workroom, in his name is the King's work and worthy his daughters. We are better understood than we were six months ago, particularly by the ministers. They did fear that we were drawleg away from the churches, but they know sow that if we go out among the people it is out to come in with us to take the house of the King. In all our great meetings, now, we have ministers representing three or four denominations sepaking for us, as to-night, and working with us."

seaking for us, as to-night, and working with us.

Mrs. Davis read from the address of Mrs. Mary Lour Dickinson, who was prevented by dinks from being present, the following words of commendation and counsel:

Neverin all the five years of our existence have I felt what a glorious thing this sister-bood of service means to God and humanity as I feel it to-day. When I see it taking the strong practical phases which I have desired to see it take; when I is see that our tenement-house committee work is going to amount to something more than sentimental sympathy with suffering, and that it means actual contout with disease and misery and dirt; when I see work like that projected by the Bliver Cross, guild, the day tunsery, and kindergarten taken hold of with such energy and personal sucrifice, I recognize that the mark of the wearers, and Christ's singdom is nearer because this sisterhood of service has come into the world. The order is or should be a veritable saivation army. It has the world for its field. Suffering child-hood everywhere makes its appeal to its metherhood, Ignorant, untrained, and often lost womanhood makes its last appeal to its sisterhood. The heathen world waits longingly for its prayers and gifts of outstretched hand, and suffering and sin everywhere clamors and ories at the threshold of every heart.

Dr. Alsop and the Rev. Mr. Ferry spoke of the nower for mether the summer of the nower for mether the summer of the nower for mether the single of the nower for mether the content of the nower for mether the summer of the nower for mether the content of the nower the first of the nower for mether the content of the nower the next of the nower for mether the content of the nower the next of the nower the next of the nower the next of the nower than the next of the next of the nower than the next of the next of the next y for its prayers and gifts of outstretched hand, and suffering and sin everywhere clamors and cries at the threshold of every hear."

Dr. Alsop and the Rev. Mr. Ferry spoke of the power for good manifested by the society, both spiritual and philanthropical. Mr. Ferry particularly commended the peculiar influence of the organization in accomplishing results which nasiors have failed to accomplish.

Mr. Jacob A. Ruse of the Tenement House Committee gave many interesting incidents and experiences of the work of the twenty-five women and men who went out to the aid of the relief corps of physicians during the summer months, dwelling, particularly upon the readiness with which kings Daughters outside the committee made the work possible by their donaitons of money, clothes, delicacies for the sick, and flowers. The materials always came to meet the demand just when everything seemed hopeless. On one occasion when they were confronted with a prescription calling for one baby carriage," and with no money in the treasury, they passed the case over to the newspapers, and the next morning five baby carriages were wheeled in a procession down to the headquarters in Henry street.

Mrs. Davis spoke briefly of the duty of the ages—the unity of the Church of God. The king's daughters must hasten the daw when thegreat C hurch of God shall be one in burcose, one in heart, one in love, pressing for ward to the day when the King shall come for His coronation."

ABOUT THE LAST OF THE BUR. Not Morate to the Bank a Saving of Five Morths' Interest on $255,000.

The back of the run on the Citizens' Savings Bank was broken yesterday, and to-day, the Jewish Sunday, will probably wind it up. There was just as big a crowd about the doors yesterday morning as there was on Wednes-day and Thursday, but when Capt. McCullagh and his men got the people in line the excitament that marked the run of the two days previous had su beided somewhat. A score of men and women bad camped on the bank steps all night. They were Italians. They were driven off the steps by the police when the line had formed, and then they had to take the tail end of the line, which was around in Elizabeth street, near the corner of Bayard. The little woman who brought up the tall end of the line and she was probably the best hugged woman in New York. There was a little Italian behind her and a big Polish Jew in front of her. The big Jew leaned back on her, and the little

The Finance Committee of the Board of Directors of the Bank held a meeting before the bank opened. They decided to go on and pay every one who wanted his money and then to refuse to permit him to become a depositor every one who wanted his money and then to refuse to permit him to become a depositor again.

While the meeting was going on a gang of sharks were at work along the line outside. They had cash and offered to buy all deposits at ninety cents on the dollar. They told the depositors that the bank would surely shat down, and that they would have to wait maybe years for their money. It did not seem to dawn on the minds of the ignorant men and women that if this was really the state of affairs sharks would be the last to buy the claims, so for half an bour the speculators did a good business. In that time probably they got $20,000 for $18,000.

Then Capt. McCullingh heard what was going on, and he sont word to his officers along the line that that kind of thing must stop. The speculators were driven off, and did not return during the day.

A feature of the line yesterday was five Chinese, They were the first Chinese who had appeared for their money, though the bank has accounts with many of them. They did not stay long. One of the policemen told them that their money was safe, and they went away.

The bank doors were opened at $:50,0'clock, has accounts with many of them. I ney did not stay long. One of the rolicemen told them that their money was safe, and they went away.

The bank doors were opened at 9:50 o'clock, and nearly 100 persons who were on the head of the line were admitted at once. Then followed a rush from the outsiders. The policemen drew their clubs and drove the crowd back.

It looked at 2 o'clock as though all those in line might reach the door by 3 o'clock, the closing time. The tightly squeezed little woman near the end felt very much encouraged. She stood 5% hours in line on Thursday, and had been standing six hours more at 2 o'clock. She thought she surely would get into the bank. A SUN reporter asked her how much she had in the bank. She could not speak English, but through an interpreter she said she had $52 on deposit.

At five minutes before 3 the end of the line had almost reached the corner of Canal street and the Bowery, and the doors were opened for the last batch of the day. There was such a crush as bad not taken place since the run began. The line was broken into smithereens, and all semblance of order was lost in the cornshible. There was fighting and hair pulling. The little woman near the end of the line was in the centre of the fray. She fought like a demon, and pulled and hauled and kicked and scratched, but all to no avail. The doors were closed just a moment before she reached them. She sat down on the steps then and had a good cry.

President Quintard said that only $70,000 had been paid out. That is $20,000 less than was paid on wednesday. The bank officers were all satisfied that to-day would end the run. It has amounted to nothing except to increase the profits of the bank and throw extra labor on the clerks.

A bank book on the Citizens' Savings Bank, which was found in the street by a policeman, awaits the owner, Abel Herzfeld, at the Mulberry street station.

THE BARKER FAILURE.

No Statement YellMade of the Condition of PHILADELPHIA. Nov. 21.—The doors of Barker Brothers & Co.'s banking house were opened again this morning, and affairs in and around the bank resumed something of their wonted appearance, although, of course, no banking business was transacted. Actress Florence Potter Sets the Pollee Upon Her Priend Barker. Charles B. Barker, whose father, the auction eer, left him, it is said, an income of $15,000, Union Square Theatre last summer, in which seph Haworth, played the leading part. Barker was arrested on Thursday at Central Valley, where he was out with a shooting party. He was set free upon reaching the Eldridge street station by Police Justice Gorman, who had been summoned to take ball late on Thursday night. His mother went on his bond then and again yesterday, pending an examination before Justice Duffy on Tuesday next.

The complainant against Barker is Florence Potter, who had been an actress in the Ferncill company when it went on the road. He met her four years ago, when she was a performer on the variety stage. She said last night that Barker fell in love with her at that sime, and had occupied a flat with her at 35s West Fifty-first street. They were at the Paris Exposition last year. They also made a tour of the seashore resorts on board the yacht Flash. Florence said he acted very queerly white on board the yacht, and persisted in repeatedly kissing her before the crew. He told her, she says, that she ought not to mind a yacht's crew, when she had continually been kissed on the stage before hundreds of people. On July 25, Florence says, she went to her dre-smaker's, leaving Barker at the flat. She was busy for the whole day. Barker, meanwhile, went to a furniture storage house and ordered the removal of all the furniture in the flat. Florence says she paid $2,000 in cash for the furniture. He also took her pet canary and poodle dog and refused to say what he did with them. She says she has lenthim $3,000.

with a determined and powerful attempt organized by Mr. Balfour and a number of Tory and Liberal Unionist capitalists in England and landlord syndicates in Ireland, to starve out the Irish organizations and the evicted tenants by simultaneously increasing the vigor of coercion and the number of evictions.

"So resolute and merciless is this combination that at the very moment when according to the Government itself, larke portions of ireland are menaced with severe distress, wholesale evictions are being carried out.

"The chief purpose of the mission of the Irish delegates to America is to counteract this last desperate assault by an appeal to the generosity of the American people for moral and financial support.

"The amount of sympathy and interest already manifested in their mission has exceeded their most sanguine expectations. The very extent of this response has, however, increased the difficulties of the delegates. They now find it will be impossible for them to visit all the localities from which invitations are being received.

"They know, however, from communications addressed to them, that even towns which cannot be visited are anxious to contribute their share toward the funds of the Irish National party, It is therefore suggest. Engineer Sammis saw the danger ahead, and, reversing his engine, leaped from the cab, followed by the fireman. The next instant the locomotive struck the end of the freight train obliquely. The freight car directly in its path was hurled into a ditch. Two other cars were tossed aside and smashed into kindling wood. The track was torn up, and the locomotive came to a stop in the dirt.

Several hundred people wereon the passenger train. They got a severe shaking up, but all escaped serious injury. Mrs. Stout of licekwille Centre was struck in the face by a flying seat and was severely injured. Westley Bonnett, a mail agent living in Long Island City, was thrown down by the shock and had his back injured. The platforms of the passenger cars were splintered, but beyond that the train suffered no damage. The passenger train was under full headway at the time of the collision.

She said that she made the false charge against Heilly when she learned that he was going to marry another girl, expecting that he would give up the Inter and marry her. BECOR'S STEWART CASE

The case of Sarah Brauagh against William P. Smith is an attempt to establish the claims of Irish kin to the estate of A. T. Stewart. W. H. Secor asked Judge Lacombe, in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday, for a commission to examine Dr. Erastus F. Marcy. who is aged and infirm, at his home, 896 Fifth avenue. He was one of the witnesses of Mr. Stewart's will. Mr. Secor averred that fraud was per-petrated in the drawing up of the document. petrated in the drawing up of the document. and he wanted the physician's testimony taken as soon as it could be done. He went on to say that it was peculiar and significant that the original will of A. T. Stewart was never filed in the Surrogate's Court, and he moved that the will be ordered at this time to be placed in the possession of the Clerk of this court.

Lawyer Jabish Holmer, Jr., representing the defendants interposed to say that there was no secrecy about the whereabouts of the will it was in the possession of Horace Russell, and it would be produced when properly called for.

Judge Lacombe remarked that no motion was before the court with respect to the will. As to the appointment of a commission, he saw no reason why one should not be named to examine Dr. Marcy if he was unable to appear because of his infirmities. He decided, however, to examine the papers before announcing a decision.

POLICE PROTECTION, $150.

Sheriff Sickles has been sued for $15,000 damages in connection with the troubles over Part of the property consisted of the saloon at the widow Hyland, and the co-administrator, the saloon, which was not so profitable under the nephew's management as it had previously been. She sold the lease, at his suggestion, to Michael J. Fleming and John Gleason. William Michael J. Fleming and John Gleason. William liviand, a cousin of the Geceased, became suspicious of these transactions, and thought that there was collusion against the interests of the four children. He had a receiver appointed, and irregularities were discovered. A writ of ejectment against Fleming and Gleason was issued by Judge Beach, and it is for serving this writ that the Sheriff is sued.

The accounts of the co-administrator are said to contain some frems in explanation of low profits of the saloon business that will interest police circles. They refer, it is alleged, to expenditures "for police protection, $150." It is also said that a police officer called at the Surrogate's office the other day and exhibited a good deal of interest in this report.

The Run on the Howard Savings Bank

The run on the Howard Savings Institution of Newark was reduced to a mere dribble at noon yesterday, and when the closing hour came it was found that there were no more anxious depositors to pay. The directors of the bank say they will be contented to lose every member of the class of depositors who became panic stricken and drew out their money. It is said that the amount of deposits withdrawn in the last three days is less than $100,000, every cent of which was paid in gold. On Thursday, while a crowd of depositors was in front of the bank, a wagon was drawn up and four or five sacks of coin were carried into the building. It is said that this had more effect in reassuring the foreigners in the line than all that has been said or written about the condition of the bank. the bank say they will be contented to lose Policeman Fogarty's Day Of. Michael Fogarty of the Broadway squad had a day off yesterday and, strolling down into Cortlandt street, he quarrelied with a colored porter named Samuel R. Williams and Williams says Focarty kicked him in the back. Policeman Stevens arrested Fogarty who, when arraigned before Justice White in the Tombs Police Court, was slightly under the influence of liquor. He was told to go home and sober up and paroled to appear for examination to-day. a day off yesterday and, strolling down into

INCREASED POSTAL REVENUES.

The Auti-Lettery Law Reduces the Re-colpts in New Orleans $10,000 a Month, WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 .- "An increase of at least ten per cent. in the postal revenues." Hazen, who has charge of the issue and manufacture of postage stamps, "will be apparent in my report, which will be submitted to the Postmaster General in a few days There has been a marked increase of business at thirty of the principal offices in the United States. but I was astonished at the decreased revenues manifested in the accounts received from the Post Offices at Kansas City. Minnefrom the Post Offices at Kansas City. Minnapolis, and St. Paul. Hitherto these three offices have kept un pretty well together, due in a great measure to the maintenance of a real estate boom in the respective places. Now, however, there seems to be a collapse in that line, as is evidencedby the falling off in the postal receipts in these three cities. A comparison made between the business of the North South, and West, shows that the three sections are keeping pietty close together, one of the phenomenal cities, in point of receipts, being Rechester. N. Y. Probably the fact that this town is the centre of immense seed interests may account for the increased busiless, and when the figures are published they will seem almost marvellous. The city where there has been a noticeable decrease in postal revenues is New Orleans, which has been materially affected by the anti-lottery law. Upward of $10,000 have been cut off every month since the basings of the bill by Congress, and the brilice has been recently reorganized and the force reduced by the retirement of nine men. Money order business, too, has fallen off very perceptibly, and the recents of the New Orleans Post Office have been curtained at least one-inird from what they were inst year by the action taken against the lottery people. New York and Chicago are running a close race as far as postal business is concerned, and the proportions assumed by this branch of the public service have become gigantic at both places. All through the West and Southwest there are splendid returns, and in some instances an increase of from 18 to 28 per cent, has become apparent. apolis, and St. Paul. Hitherto these three

What both parties call a friendly suit has been begun in the United States Circuit Court to determine the equities in the complications American Exchange National Bank intrusted to the Treasury Department at Washington over two years ago. The package, containing old bills which the bank desired to have exchanged for new, was delivered sealed to the Adams Express Company by Messengers Craw-ford and Earle. When opened, it was found to contain brown slips of paper in place of to contain brown silps of paper in place of money.

President John Hoey of the express company made good the loss to the bank, stipulating, however, that in case the loss was traced to an official or employee of the bank the $41,000 should be refunded and the expenses involved in running down the thief made good. Messenger Crawford remained in the employ of the bank for about a year and then decamped for South America. He was not suspected until he left. Detective Pinkerton finally ran Crawford down in British Honduras, got him to go to Santa Barbara, where he arrested him, and recovered $32,525 of the money. Crawford afterward gave the detectives the silp.

The money was turned over to the express company, and the company new seeks to reserve the form the bank the remainder, with interest, and expenses incurred in tracing the thief, amounting in all to $34,000. The expenses alone, so President Hoey said yesterday, were $20,000.

A Chicago despatch says: The Transcontinental Association, in seasion here has adopted unanimously a resolution pledging all roads in the association to maintain agreed rates, carry out strictly all rules, and pay no rebates or drawbacks or give any other inducements to shippers to secure traffic. A special agreement has been entered into between the Southern Pacific, Sante Fé and Union Pacific pledging themselves to protect all Pacific coast rates, and agreeing to stop the interchange of traffic with any road east of the Missouri litter which is found to be cutting or manipulating the rates.

There was a meeting of the Gibbs syndicate of the Reading Railroad just after the failure of Barker Bros. & Co. to consider whether the syndicate needed to fortify itself in order to keep its control of the road. Wharton Barker belonged to the pool, and they took it for granted that he would have to liquidate his interests. They found, however, that his holdings in Reading were not large enough to destroy the pool's majority of the stock. Although there has been talk that several of the syndicate would be forced by the stringency of money to part with their holdings, one of their number said yesterday that they agreed to stand solid.

An Indianapolis despatch says: Representa-tives from all departments of the Lake Erie and Western train service have asked General Manager Bradbury that wages be advanced to the standard now in vogue on the Big Four and other lines. This will mean an increase
